Dear Shareholder

CHARITY SHARES FOR CHILDREN

Many investors find themselves holding a small quantity of shares that are often more inconvenient than they are worth. This can be the result of, amongst other things, an unbundling, a scheme of arrangement or other corporate action. Following the introduction of Strate in 1998, these holdings cannot be sold until they have been converted to electronic records of ownership.

The cost of conversion to an electronic record of ownership, plus brokerage expenses, can often exceed the market value of the shares. Disposal of the shares is thus frequently not practical, with the result that investors find their portfolios untidy and unwieldy.

As a result, Charity Shares for Children (CS4C), a non-profit company, was established in 2002 to raise funds via disposal by shareholders of their odd-lot holdings, for the benefit of various charities. Historically, donations only included equities, but the scheme was expanded in 2015 to also accept the donation of bonds.

In terms of the CS4C initiative, investors may donate their holdings, whether or not they have been converted to an electronic record of ownership, to CS4C, which consolidates them, sells them and distributes the proceeds to a variety of good causes.

Significantly, an investor who is a South African taxpayer, obtains a tax deduction under Section 18A of the Income Tax Act for the amount of the donation. Shareholdings, for which share certificates have been lost, may also be donated, as well as unclaimed dividends.

The scheme has the full support of the exchange and benefits from the enthusiastic co-operation of many issuing companies and other concerned institutions. The administration of the scheme has been entrusted to Computershare. Should you be holding bonds or an odd lot of shares and are interested in donating them to charity, the necessary documentation to do so is enclosed with this letter. Provision has been made for you to donate shares in any listed or unlisted company and to donate any unclaimed dividends that the issuing company may hold on your behalf.

Should you have any queries, please do not hesitate to contact the CS4C helpline on:
